

WILD PROGRAM

Youth-driven projects that address environmental health and justice issues affecting low-income communities

WILDERNESS INNER-CITY LEADERSHIP DEVELOPMENT

WILD participants develop a deep understand of the environment and gain invaluable leadership skills through:

- Participation in outreach, education, and neighborhood leadership projects
- Receiving academic support, college preparation, and career advice
- Conducting habitat and trail restoration on U.S. Forest Service land
- Learning about the environment through field trips and camping
- Teaching ESL classes to elderly immigrants and refugees
- Sharing newly gained sustainable gardening knowledge with schoolchildren in the Danny Woo Community Garden

BECOME A PARTNER

- Sponsor vital educational programs that address environmental and social justice issues
- Conduct a leadership, work skills, or social justice workshop for youth
- Sponsor a field trip for youth and elders, or attendance at a conference or training
- Donate funds, raffle prizes or giveaway items

